The key components of a training program include:

- A minimum of 12 months of training in the office/facility of the Program Director where the majority of time is spent training.
- Participation in 500 Mohs surgery cases (600 for fellows in ACGME-accredited programs) under direct supervision of an approved Program Director, Associate Director or Surgical Faculty member.
- Of the 500 Mohs surgery cases, at least 300 of these must be under direct supervision of the Director or Associate Director.
- Of the 500 Mohs surgery cases, the fellow must complete 125 of these cases serving as primary surgeon under the direct supervision of the Director or Associate Director.
- Of the 500 Mohs surgery cases, 50 must be complex Mohs surgery cases and 50 must entail advanced reconstructive techniques.
- Didactic and clinical instruction in all areas of the Core Curriculum.
- Formal training in anatomy such that each fellow is competent and comfortable in the most difficult anatomical sites.
- The fellow must be intimately involved in reviewing all pathology from the surgical cases done in the Fellowship Training Program.
- The fellow must participate in the medical and surgical evaluation and treatment planning in all Mohs surgery cases.
- The fellow must learn to do horizontal frozen sections in the micrographic surgical laboratory and be able to stain the slides appropriately.
- The fellow must be trained in the principles of fresh tissue micrographic surgical techniques.
- Experience must be provided in wound healing, cutaneous oncology, and consultations with other surgical services.
- All graduates from an approved training Program must have passed and received a certificate from an advanced cardiac life support course.
- All fellows must, under the supervision and assistance of their Directors, pursue original research in the area of Cutaneous Oncology, Mohs Micrographic Surgery or related during their training.
